Abundant Power Launches Energy Efficiency Program with St. Louis County $10 Million in Residential Financing

Charlotte, NC - based Abundant Power launches a new program today with St. Louis County, Missouri that will provide $10.4 million in energy efficiency loans for local residents. One of the first in the nation to use Qualified Energy Conservation Bonds, the program structure enables unusually low interest rates for green community programs.

“St. Louis has demonstrated tremendous leadership with this innovative program, and we are pleased to partner in getting funds into the market quickly” stated Shannon Smith, CEO of Abundant Power Group, which was selected through a competitive process for program design and administration. “Our country is in need of innovative solutions to perhaps our biggest problem - energy. We believe this is just the beginning of huge potential for our nation to drive down energy costs for property owners and create much needed local jobs.”

“Home owners can see immediate savings from simple improvements to their home that payback quickly in both comfort and lower energy bills” according to Anne Klein, the County’s Director of Sustainability that is leading the program. Local contractors will also benefit from the program as over 1,000 homes are expected to get upgrades as a part of the effort.

“Abundant Power is uniquely qualified to manage our program,” stated Klein. “Abundant Power has topnotch financial and energy efficiency expertise, and experience with similar programs in Alabama and South Carolina. They share our commitment to generating economic development, improving the environment and helping home owners save money.”
